Columbia University

Founded in 1754 as King’s College by Royal Charter of King George II of England, Columbia University is the fifth oldest institution of higher learning in the United States and the oldest in the State of New York. From its beginning, Columbia and its graduates have made significant contributions to the nation and the advancement of knowledge.

Founding fathers Alexander Hamilton, John Jay, Gouverneur Morris, and Robert Livingston were all graduates of King’s College. Presidents Theodore and Franklin D. Roosevelt were both graduates of the Law School, and President Dwight Eisenhower was president of the University at the time of his election. More recently, Supreme Court Justice Ruth Bader Ginsberg graduated from Columbia’s School of Law; former U.S. Secretary of State Madeleine Albright graduated from the School of Public Affairs; and President Barack Obama graduated from Columbia College. The University counts 38 Nobel Laureates among its faculty and graduates, including two Nobel Peace Prize Laureates.
The Neighborhood Surrounding Columbia University

We encourage admitted students to listen to the self-guided walking tour (http://www.columbia.edu/content/self-guided-walking-tour.html) of Columbia University, but recognize that you are probably also curious about the neighborhood surrounding the University, therefore we have provided you with information about the area and have highlighted some neighborhood institutions.

Morningside Heights

Morningside Heights is one of the city's most architecturally distinguished neighborhoods. Many regard it as the city's academic quarter. At the turn of the century, as several institutions relocated to this upper Manhattan plateau, it became indelibly associated with New York's educational, medical, and religious foundations. Many publications of the day referred to it as the “Acropolis of New York.” Both Riverside and Morningside Park, which border the neighborhood on its east and west sides were designed by Frederick Law Olmsted, who also designed Central Park.

It is about 20 minutes from midtown Manhattan by subway. It is currently home to about 35,000 people, and over the years has housed a long list of famous individuals as well as world-renowned institutions.

Some Neighborhood Institutions

- Bank Street College of Education, 610 W. 112th Street
- Barnard College, 3009 Broadway
- Broadway Presbyterian Church, 601 West 114th Street
- Cathedral of St. John The Divine, 1047 Amsterdam
- Grant's Tomb, Riverside Drive (between 122 & 123)
- International House, 500 Riverside Drive
- Jewish Theological Seminary, 3080 Broadway
- Manhattan School of Music, 120 Claremont Avenue
- St. Luke’s-Roosevelt Hospital Ctr., 111 Amsterdam
- Teachers College, 525 W. 120 Street
- The Riverside Church, 490 Riverside Drive
- Union Theological Seminary, 3040 Broadway
Harlem

There is much to see in Harlem – The neighborhood includes outstanding architecture, several landmark historic districts and renowned churches and cultural institutions, among them the Studio Museum and the Schomburg Center of Black Research, the world’s leading research facility devoted to the preservation of materials on the global African experience.

Harlem is perhaps best known as home to some of America’s greatest musicians, artists and writers. Award-winning poet Langston-Hughes (who attended Columbia for a year), novelist Zora Neale Hurston (a Barnard & Columbia graduate), W.E.B Dubois (one of the founders of the NAACP) and musicians like Louis Armstrong and Duke Ellington were just some of the names to emerge from the Harlem Renaissance.

Harlem remains a very vibrant community. It is enjoying an economic and cultural renaissance, and with it has come a renewed interest in the sights and sounds the area has to offer. It’s now the third most popular tourist destination in the city, after Times Square and Wall Street.

SOME NEIGHBORHOOD INSTITUTIONS

Abyssinian Baptist Church (138th Street). Founded in 1808, this New York City landmark is home to one of New York’s oldest African-American congregations.

Apollo Theater (253 West 125th Street between Adam Clayton Powell Jr. Boulevard and Frederick Douglass Boulevard)

City College of New York (Convent Avenue at 138th Street). Beautiful neo-Gothic buildings. Alumni success stories include Ira Gershwin, Jonas Salk, Colin Powell, Mario Runco, Walter Mosley, Ernesto Quinonez. According to Standard & Poors, City is ranked 11th in the United States in the number of graduates who have become America’s leading business executives.

Hamilton Grange National Memorial (Convent Avenue) Designed by John McComb (architect of City Hall), residence was Alexander Hamilton’s country estate and principal residence when he was killed in a duel with Aaron Burr in 1804

Malcolm Shabaz Mosque/ Harlem Market (116th Street @ 5th Ave). Traditional African crafts and textiles; an array of imported goods like Ghanian “kent” cloth, Kenyan baskets, Nigerian leather bags, Meccan incense, West African trade beads, Tuareg silver jewelry, Ecuadorian Handmade Sweaters & Coats, African masks, artifacts, carvings, alongside the typical street fare of tee-shirts, caps, sunglasses, etc.

Morris-Jumel Mansion. During battle of Harlem Heights, estate served as George Washington’s headquarters. Eliza Bowen, Stephen Jumel’s widow married Aaron Burr, 3rd Vice-President of the US. They were married in the front parlor of the mansion.

Mother AME Zion (137th). Founded in 1776. During 19C, church was referred to as a “freedom church,” reflective of its role on the Underground Railroad.

Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture. Arturo Schomburg, a black Puerto Rican, was an influential cultural leader who began the collection to discredit the contemporary belief that African-Americans had no history. Today, more than 5 million books, photographs, manuscripts, films, recordings, and works of art are kept here. Not to be missed are the Pietro Calvi bust of Ira Aldridge and the art installation Rivers located in the vestibule.

Studio Museum in Harlem. “Small but lovely.” Devoted to historical and contemporary works of art by black artists. Collection features nineteenth and twentieth-century African-American art, twentieth century Caribbean and African art, and traditional African art and artifacts

555 Edgecombe Avenue (160th St) Home to prominent African-Americans such as Olympian Jesse Owens, tennis champion Althea Gibson, arctic explorer Mathew Henson, jazz great Count Basie and stage legend Paul Robeson (Columbia law school grad).
Resources at Columbia University

While not a comprehensive list of all of the resources available to students enrolled at Columbia University, we have included resources that we want to make sure you are aware of as you are making your decision to enroll.

Academic and Career Resources

Libraries
http://library.columbia.edu

At your disposal are 22 libraries including affiliates, a system which ranks as one of the top five academic libraries in the nation. The collections include over 12 million volumes, over 160,000 current journals and serials, and an extensive collection of electronic resources, manuscripts, rare books, microforms, maps, and graphic and audiovisual materials. Columbia’s newly redesigned information discovery system, CLIO, provides a single point of service, integrating many previously disparate sources of information.

Executive Career Coaching

With Executive Career Coaching, you will work with a professional coach who will provide guidance in planning a path to best fit your career and life goals, as well as provide strategic, tactical support for your job search. For our highly selective degree programs in new and emerging fields, this individualized coaching will help you define your career objectives, create a strategic career map, and leverage resources to pursue your goals. The skills developed in this process benefit future career development, long after the program is complete.

Writing Center
http://www.college.columbia.edu/core/uwp/writing-center

The Writing Center provides writing support to students enrolled in Columbia courses. In one-on-one consultations and workshops, writing consultants offer feedback and strategies to help you improve at every stage of your writing, from brainstorming to final drafts. The Writing Center is open throughout the academic year – fall semester, spring semester, and Summer Session.

Computer Labs
http://cuit.columbia.edu

A number of different types of computing facilities are available to students of the university. These facilities range from simple informational kiosks to high-end workstations to walk-in consulting centers. Access requirements and schedules are provided in the detailed descriptions for each location.

Wellness Resources

http://www.health.columbia.edu

Columbia Health is part of the University’s Student and Administrative Services division on the Morningside Campus. Columbia Health provides integrated and accessible services and programs that support the well-being of the campus community and the personal and academic development of students. Five departments and more than 130 individuals make up the Columbia Health Program, dedicated to meeting your health needs on campus.

- Alice! Health Promotion connects students with information and resources, and supports healthy attitudes and behaviors within the campus community.
- Counseling and Psychological Services offers short-term individual counseling, couples counseling, student-life support groups and medication consultation.
- Disability Services coordinates accommodations and support services including assistive technology, networking groups, academic skills workshops, and learning specialists.
- Medical Services provides routine and urgent medical care, as well as sexual health, reproductive and gynecological services, travel medicine, LGBTQ healthcare, confidential HIV testing and immunizations.
- Sexual Violence Response supports students in healing from sexual and relationship violence, and educates students about consent and coercion to promote a respectful and safe campus.
Health Insurance
http://health.columbia.edu/insurance
Columbia University requires all registered full-time students (i.e., those who are registered for 12 credits or more) to have acceptable health insurance coverage. The Columbia Student Medical Insurance Plan (Columbia Plan) offers both Basic and Comprehensive levels of coverage. Full-time students are automatically enrolled in the Basic level of the plan, but may upgrade their coverage to the Comprehensive level or request a waiver of automatic enrollment by providing proof of alternate coverage that meets certain criteria.

Dodge Physical Fitness Center
http://www.gocolumbialions.com
The Marcellus Hartley Dodge Physical Fitness Center at Columbia University includes an indoor running track, 25-yard swimming pool, Scandinavian sauna, multi-sport gymnasium, and a tri-level fitness center with the latest cardiovascular and strength training equipment. Members can also sign up for voluntary fitness classes.

Arts and Events Resources

Columbia University Events Calendar
http://www.columbia.edu/events/today.html
For up to the minute information on lecture, concerts, and sports events taking place on the Morningside, Medical and Lamont-Doherty campuses and at the Baker Field Athletics Complex, please visit the Columbia University Events Calendar.

Miller Theatre
Miller Theatre at Columbia University is the leading presenter of new music in New York City and one of the most vital forces nationwide for innovative programming. In partnership with Columbia University School of the Arts, Miller is dedicated to producing and presenting unique events in dance, contemporary and early music, jazz, opera, and performance.

CU Arts Initiative
The Arts Initiative at Columbia University is President Lee C. Bollinger’s pioneering venture to make arts and culture a meaningful part of every Columbia’s experience. Founded in 2004, its diverse programs encourage students, faculty, and alumni in all fields to generate, study, and engage the creative life of the campus, the city, and the wider world.

Parking, Transportation and Safety

Parking and Transportation around Campus
http://www.columbia.edu/content/directions-parking.html
http://facilities.columbia.edu/overview-3
You may park on the streets around campus or use the local parking garages.

Intercampus Shuttle Bus Network
http://transportation.columbia.edu
Columbia University provides several shuttle bus routes among the Morningside campus, Lamont, Studebaker, the Medical Center, Harlem Hospital, and the George Washington Bridge Bus Terminal. These shuttle services are available to all Columbia University affiliates with a valid University ID, free of charge.

Campus Safety
publicsafety@columbia.edu
Columbia’s Department of Public Safety staffs an emergency call line 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, has emergency call boxes (blue light phones) around the campuses, has a walking escort program and a safe transport program.

- Blue Light Phones – Emergency Call Boxes
The University has installed emergency two-way Call Boxes (Blue Light phones) around all three campuses and their vicinities for use during emergencies. By pressing the red button on the stations, users are immediately connected with the appropriate Department of Public Safety Operations Center.

- Walking Escort Program, Morningside Campus
During the school year, Columbia University Escort Service will send two specially trained students to walk University staff, faculty, and students to their doors any time from 7 p.m. to 3 a.m., seven nights a week. They carry two-way Columbia Public Safety radios. This service is available on campus and the perimeter area. Additionally, University staff, faculty, and students may request Late Night On-Call Service for door-to-door transportation. This service is available from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. daily.

- Safe Transport, Medical Center
Columbia’s Public Safety Officers will escort students door to door to or from any of the University buildings on the Medical Center campus or at private residences on Haven Avenue, Fort Washington Avenue, or on Broadway from West 165 to West 178 Street.
Funding Your Graduate Education

We realize that you’ve come to Columbia University to do important work. Our job is to help you make sure that the cost of a graduate degree will not stand in the way of your goals. Information about the financial aid process is detailed below. Please explore it and be sure to contact Scott Hecht in the Office of Student Financial Planning if you have any questions.

To be considered for the federal loans and work study, students must be U.S. citizens or permanent residents of the United States and plan to be enrolled in at least a half-time basis (at least six points per term). Other requirements apply for loan eligibility. Students who are not a U.S. citizen or permanent resident of the United States may apply for private/alternative educational loans or find outside funding sources.

FAFSA is a federal form required to award federal financial aid. Students can access the FAFSA here: http://www.fafsa.ed.gov/. The documents needed to complete your FAFSA include: Social Security Number, driver’s license, income tax returns, bank statements and investment records. Columbia University’s school code is: 002707.

PLEASE NOTE: While the University has suggested lenders, students have the right to borrow from any lender they choose.

Funding for U.S. Military Veterans
The U.S. Department of Veteran Affairs, as well as state and local government, offers a number of educational assistance programs for veterans of the U.S. Armed Forces and their dependents. Based on the time and length of service, as well as current status, veterans can be eligible for one or more of these programs. For more information, visit Columbia’s Veteran Affairs website:
http://veteranaffairs.columbia.edu/
The School of Continuing Education participates in the Yellow Ribbon Program (YRP). Information about this program may be found here:
http://veteranaffairs.columbia.edu/content/yellow-ribbon-program-1
Outside Funding Sources for Students

Students are strongly encouraged to research and apply for scholarship funds from outside sources to help supplement the cost of their education, such as those that may be available from philanthropic, fraternal or non-profit organizations, as well as corporations. The list below, while not intended to be comprehensive, may give students an idea of the types of funding opportunities available.

Subscription-Based Databases

All Columbia students have access to the following fellowship databases through subscriptions from the University:

- InfoEd SPIN – database of research grants and funding opportunities from InfoEd Global; requires login from a Columbia IP address InfoEd SPIN
  https://spin.infoedglobal.com/Home/GridResults

- Foundation Center – database of foundation and public charity programs that fund students, artists, researchers, and other individual grant-seekers; requires login from a Columbia IP address or an active UNI and password

In addition to using the Foundation Center’s online database, Columbia students may also find it helpful to visit the library at the New York branch:

Finding Housing in New York City

How to go about a search:

Timing: The New York housing market can be very tight. You should inquire about postings, or better, arrange to see the apartment as immediately as possible. Effective searches usually begin when you’re physically in New York. Be prepared in advance to put down the first month’s rent and a security deposit (often equal to one month’s rent). Applications involve providing information about your rental history and your finances or, if you do not have adequate income, about the finances of a co-signer. Please note that management companies have various rules about who can be a cosigner (do they reside inside or outside New York state, are they U.S. citizen or not?).

Apartments are generally available within a month, not before that. Thus, looking at apartments in May when you want to move in August may not work well. However, if you would like to see an apartment in a building with frequent openings, it may be a good way to get an idea of what will be available later. In that regard, there may be a waiting list to lease in the building.

Financing: As noted above, leasing an apartment usually requires a great deal of liquidity, including first month’s rent and a security deposit, as well as a high income (often many times the annual rent). If you do not have such an income, and do not have an acceptable cosigner, you may want to consider subletting or sharing an apartment. If you do go ahead with leasing your own apartment, your initial payments often cannot be paid with personal checks; rather you will need to get a cashier’s check or money order at a local branch of your bank.

Subletting or sharing: The advantages of subletting or sharing an apartment are many, especially for international and other students coming from a long distance, students not planning to stay in the city after school, students without a cosigner or high income, and students who do not want to spend time or money furnishing an apartment.

Brokers: A very common—but not universal—practice in New York City is the use of private apartment brokers to assist in the housing search. Often, rental companies themselves will not list on websites or the newspaper, but will leave it up to the brokers to advertise or find listings for clients. The broker will find a list of apartments close to what you are looking for in terms of neighborhood, price, and size, and will show you those you want to see. If you decide to lease an apartment that a broker shows you, they will charge fees of usually 12–15% of the annual rent of a leased apartment. This is sometimes moderately negotiable. While there are some companies that ask for a much smaller fee up front to show you apartments (which you may or may not like), most brokers will not charge you if you do not rent an apartment through them. Advertisements and a web search can lead you to brokers.

Note that many management companies will advertise for themselves, but their ads can be very vague, often with just a name, neighborhood and phone number. However, you shouldn’t ignore these ads, because management companies that post their own ads often don’t work through a broker, saving you the broker’s fee. Below are some resources that can help you with your housing search.

Columbia’s Off-Campus Housing Assistance:

As an admitted student at Columbia University you have access to and are strongly encouraged to visit the website of the Columbia University Off-Campus Housing Office (OCHA) (http://facilities.columbia.edu/housing/intro-ocha-3). OCHA manages a database known as the Housing Registry which includes available rooms and apartments in non-Columbia-owned buildings and sublets of units in Columbia-managed housing. Prospective roommates can also post and search profiles on this site. In addition, OCHA offers housing search counseling and is supported in these efforts by their cooperative relationships with two New York City real estate/relocation agencies.
To gain access to the site you will be asked to enter your Columbia ID (UNI). If you have not yet paid your tuition deposit and activated your UNI, click on “Search” and then on “Guest Account”. You will answer a few questions to set up a Guest Account and you will also need to fax or email OCHA your proof of affiliation (acceptance letter from Columbia). The fax number is 212-854-5333 and the email is ocha@columbia.edu. Once they have received the proof of affiliation, the Guest Account will be approved and an activation email will be sent permitting you to begin searching the Registry.

International House

Students are also encouraged to apply to International House (I-House) for housing. If you wish to apply, please do so directly through the I-House application on their website.

I-House is a unique New York City graduate student housing space. Dynamic and diverse, it houses visiting students, graduate students, interns and trainees. The community comprises 700 resident members from approximately 100 countries, including the United States, who attend any graduate program or participate in an internship program anywhere in the New York City area – not just Columbia University students. I-House boasts various opportunities for personal and professional growth.

International Students and Scholars Office (ISSO)

ISSO staff assist international students and scholars with their questions about University policies and practices, regulatory and documentation matters, social and cultural activities, adjustment to a new academic and cultural environment, and personal and family services and needs. The ISSO administers immigration services for Columbia University’s international students and faculty, researchers, and visiting scholars. Advisory staff are available to help students and scholars obtain and maintain their immigration status so that immigration issues remain routine and secondary, and they are able to devote their full energies to their scholarly goals. The ISSO monitors regulations affecting relevant immigration classifications and broadcasts timely alerts and updates to students (ISSOnews).

To apply for an I-20 certificate of eligibility, submit your online application for an I-20 as soon as possible to the ISSO at: http://isso.columbia.edu
